

GOOD MORNING

Good morning, moon
a good day greeting along this river wide with welcome

my eyes scanning your shimmering face that rests above a towering city waking now so late

But why are you still there —

Sister Sun is rising nearby her light soaring in praise to beauty and grace easing goodbye to a dark night

So, why are you still there —

I say hello and walk the river way knowing I won't have you long

Good morning, moon
Good day

Marty Gervais | Poet Laureate Emeritus
Read at Windsor City Council | March 25, 2019